>AN: It's post-Halloween 6 and obviously au. Feedback is appreciated.

A fifteen year old Jamie boarded the plane to San Francisco. A suitcase in one hand and her son in the other. Fifteen and she already had a son. Stephen, Tommy had called him. With everything that had happened after his birth she never had time to name him but she liked the name Tommy had chosen. It seemed to fit.

She didn't care what happened she was going to keep her son safe. From his father and anyone else looking to hurt him. She wasn't going to let Michael have him if it was the last thing she did. And it might very well be the last thing she does. It didn't matter. All that matter to her now was keeping Stephen safe.

Jamie looked out the window as the plane took off. She was headed to her new life. A life where no one knew who she was or what had happened in her past. As long as her son was safe she was ok with starting fresh.
